No wait.
No judgment.
Just the help you need.

Compassionate care for mothers struggling with addiction.

- Getting treatment does NOT mean you will lose your child or your children. Some providers allow your children to be with you during treatment.
- If you are pregnant or a mother of young children, you are our priority for addiction treatment. Please call.

- Your treatment will be confidential and nonjudgmental.
- You can be in treatment with other pregnant women, or women like you who have young children.

- The treatment professionals who can be reached here are NOT part of the judicial or child welfare systems.
- Treatment professionals can be advocates. They can speak up and support you during your recovery.
